NORTHWEST OHIO
WOMEN'S BUSINESS COUNCIL

Our mission at the Northwest Ohio Women's Business Council is to recognize women entrepreneurs who have achieved success and contributed to the economic well-being of our community. In accord with this mission, we introduce the Women's Entrepreneurial Distinction Ovation Award (WEDO) to amplify the voices of women business owners and encourage women's economic development.

We believe in the power of narrative, and that by sharing the inspiring stories of women entrepreneurs past and present, we can create a more equitable future. We think that every individual deserves to participate fully in our economy across their life cycle and build sustainable wealth through generations so that all communities can prosper without exception. We hope you will join us in our mission.

Welcome to the 2nd Annual WEDO Awards!

We welcome you to the 2nd Annual WEDO Awards, presented by the Northwest Ohio Women's Business Council initiative under the Women of Toledo. Tonight, we unite to honor the exceptional women entrepreneurs transforming Northwest Ohio with their innovative ventures and inspiring leadership.

This year, we are privileged to celebrate fifty outstanding nominees, each a shining example of what women in business can achieve. Their accomplishments and stories are a testament to their resilience, creativity, and relentless pursuit of excellence. We extend our heartfelt thanks to our dedicated panel of judges who faced the challenging task of selecting our 2024 award recipients from such an impressive field.

The entrepreneurial spirit among women is more vibrant than ever. In 2023, over 2,000 women-led businesses were launched daily in the United States, underscoring a dynamic shift toward female-driven enterprise. These ventures, now nearly 14 million, are powerful economic engines, employing over 12 million people and contributing approximately $1.9 trillion in revenue. Women entrepreneurs are not just participating in the economy but driving change and fostering new growth.

The legacy of women entrepreneurs in the Toledo region is profound. From small startups to expansive enterprises, women have been at the forefront of creating businesses that enrich our community and strengthen our local economy. Their vision and courage have left an indelible mark on our region's history and continue to inspire future generations.

Tonight's celebration is about more than just recognizing achievements. It is about telling the powerful stories of five remarkable women whose tenacity and innovative spirit have redefined what is possible. Their journeys reflect entrepreneurship's diverse challenges and triumphs, offering valuable lessons and inspiration for all. As we celebrate these extraordinary women, let's also look forward. Let's use this moment to reaffirm our commitment to supporting women entrepreneurs. Your presence here tonight is a testament to that commitment. Let's amplify their stories, provide the resources they need, and create a community where every woman feels empowered to pursue her entrepreneurial dreams.

Thank you for joining us in this celebration. Together, we are honoring today's achievements and fostering the success of tomorrow's women leaders.

Warm regards,

Sandy Spang

Why Support the WE-DO Awards?

Every entrepreneurs should have an equitable opportunity to develop, launch, and grow a business that creates wealth for themselves, their families, and their community. In 2021, Toledo's entrepreneurial services community partnered with Forward Cities to create an equitable entrepreneurial ecosystem scorecard for our community.

The scorecard measured four essential categories for a healthy entrepreneurial ecosystem: people, programs, networks, and narratives.

The area with the greatest need for improvement was creating narratives pertaining to the ecosystem's authentic storytelling that highlights its personality and diversity.

One of the ways for improvement is to develop an award and/or recognition of excellence for diverse entrepreneurs and ecosystem leaders.

We believe that investing in gender equality, women's economic development and empowerment can help eradicate extreme poverty, build vibrant economies, and unlock human potential on a transformational scale. We aim to support these efforts, as we continue to advocate for diversity, equity, and inclusivity to bridge the equity and network gap in all areas of the marketplace and workplace in our community.

Sabriyah Davis

Rising Star Awardee

A woman, age 30 years or younger, who has founded a successful business with promise for the future.

Presented by: savage

Sabriyah Davis's journey into entrepreneurship was fueled by her pursuit of financial independence and her passion for theater. Inspired by the desire to create a meaningful legacy and demonstrate alternative paths to success, Sabriyah wanted to show her family that they could achieve their dreams with dedication and hard work. A pivotal moment during college, when financial constraints became overwhelming, solidified her entrepreneurial mindset. Her mother's encouragement to pursue her creative aspirations empowered her to believe in the power of her talents. Facing financial challenges in the start-up phase, Sabriyah carefully prioritized expenses and creatively marketed her business by reaching out to local media and building a market from scratch in Toledo, which involved trial and error and refining her offerings based on customer feedback. With the support of her family, Sabriyah navigated obstacles, formed valuable partnerships with local park authorities, and continued to pursue her vision.

Sabriyah's previous ventures, starting with Baby and Beyond at 16, provided her with essential skills in business management, branding, customer service, and social media marketing. These experiences laid the foundation for her success with Destination Picnic. Since its launch in June 2021, her revenue has grown by 150%, driven by her commitment to customer satisfaction and market expansion. Memorable experiences for clients, celebrating women-owned businesses, and partnerships in Africa highlight her accomplishments.By challenging the status quo, Sabriyah has not only proven that women can thrive in unconventional ventures but also actively supports and amplifies their success.

Through hosting annual women's networking picnics, she provides a platform for women to connect, collaborate, and support each other, thereby magnifying the collective impact of female entrepreneurs. Her collaboration with over 30 women-owned businesses has created a robust network that showcases their strength and creativity, inspiring and empowering all those involved.

Destination Picnic, under Sabriyah's leadership, has not only thrived in business but also left an indelible mark on the community. Her efforts have raised scholarship funds for schools and provided support to organizations like the Victory Center, Ronald McDonald House, and Croswell Opera House. Her dedication to empowering the next generation through initiatives like the Prestige School of Protocol and Nye Dance Productions is a testament to her commitment to positive change. Through her tireless efforts, Sabriyah continues to uplift and empower her community, driving forward initiatives that inspire and support those in need.

Angela Decker

Second Act Awardee

A woman who draws from previous life and work experiences to find success as an entrepreneur.

Presented by: ENGAGE STUDIO ARCHITECTS, LLC

Angela Decker's path to entrepreneurship was a gradual evolution shaped by her life experiences. Right out of high school, she found a career she loved, centered around helping people. As a stay-at-home mother, she still craved productivity and dabbled in home-based ventures. A pivotal moment came when Angela and her husband ventured into real estate, navigating relocations and investments. The prospect of guiding others through the real estate world while balancing family needs and entrepreneurial dreams felt like the perfect fit, propelling her into entrepreneurship.

Stepping into the shoes of a respected real estate business was both an honor and a challenge for Angela. Taking over from a highly esteemed female co-founder felt like a daunting task, but Angela was determined to rise to the occasion. Overcoming feelings of inadequacy required self-discovery and resilience. Angela faced a steep learning curve in mastering daily operations and building relationships with agents and industry affiliates. The challenge of managing low inventory against surging buyer demand tested her resolve, but each hurdle only reinforced her commitment to growth and success.

Angela's success in real estate is rooted in professional expertise and personal experiences. Her previous career experience in recruiting and staffing honed her ability to build meaningful relationships, laying the foundation for her future in real estate. Her personal experience of relocating multiple times illuminated the profound impact of a dedicated realtor. This ignited her passion to be an unwavering advocate for others, guiding them through the emotional whirlwind of moving with compassion and expertise. For Angela, success transcends numbers; it's about fostering an environment where growth flourishes. Empowering agents to realize their potential and witnessing newly licensed agents find their footing fills her with pride. Staying abreast of legal changes through local industry involvement and volunteering on committees grants invaluable insights to share with agents. Fostering innovation and encouraging staff to contribute ideas that elevate service solidify the firm's standing in the industry. These accomplishments, rooted in empowerment and collaboration, are her true measure of success and promise a brighter future.

Angela's entrepreneurial journey challenges the status quo by defying gender norms in the real estate industry. As of 2023, 64% of realtors are female, yet only around 35% of brokerage owners are women. Angela disrupts this pattern by assuming ownership and showcasing that women can lead and own brokerages. She aims to inspire other female agents, demonstrating that gender should not limit entrepreneurial aspirations. By empowering women in leadership positions, Angela hopes to pave the way for increased representation and equality in traditionally male-dominated industries, fostering a more inclusive landscape for future generations.

Under Angela's leadership, RE/MAX Preferred Associates has significantly impacted the community through its consistent support of local charities. One of the most notable initiatives is the annual fundraising event for Children's Miracle Network and the Susan G. Komen Toledo chapters, which has raised over $550,000 to date. The firm also lends its support to various other organizations that are important to both the agents and the community, including the Victory Center, Cherry St. Mission, Vision Ministries, Good Grief of NWO, the Ability Center, Task Force 20, and Habitat for Humanity. Through these contributions, Angela is making a tangible difference, supporting the community's well-being and encouraging her agents to do the same.

Erin Wiley

Thriver Awardee

A woman whose entrepreneurial leadership has grown and sustained a business, meeting increasingly higher levels of achievement in revenue, job creation and market share.

Presented by: The Andersons

Erin Wiley's entrepreneurial journey began early, with ventures like selling painted rocks and running a newspaper route. In grad school, she started The Wiley Vocal Studio to support her education. After becoming a licensed Clinical Mental Health Therapist in 2011, Erin identified a gap in the therapy market, particularly for families, children, and marriages, prompting her to start a practice that addressed relational as well as mental health needs.

Starting her practice during a national mental health crisis presented challenges, especially given the shortage and low pay of mental health professionals. Erin's goal has been to recruit, train, and retain top-notch therapists, creating a supportive environment. Her practice has won Toledo City Paper's Best of Toledo distinction for seven consecutive years and boasts the most diverse group of professionals in the area. Erin's varied job experiences—from babysitting and waitressing to sales—taught her the value of hard work, customer service, and team collaboration. Starting TWC as a solo practitioner, she quickly expanded, hiring staff and moving to larger spaces. From 2016 to 2024, the number of employees increased by 4400%, and revenue grew by 2399%. Therapy sessions surged from 1,508 in the first year to 31,745 in 2023, with 54,000 projected for 2024. The practice now offers specialized programs and health insurance benefits to full-time employees.

Erin's journey challenges the status quo, showing that women can lead and own businesses in a male-dominated industry. She transitioned from a stay-at-home mom to a licensed counselor and entrepreneur, aiming to inspire other women to pursue their dreams. Erin has helped over a dozen women start their own therapy practices, fostering a supportive community. Erin's business benefits the community by destigmatizing mental health care and improving service quality. Partnering with Dr. Dan Rapport at UTMC, her practice has expanded psychiatric services. Erin has also served as an educator and speaker for various organizations, promoting mental health awareness. Her team has saved marriages, healed trauma, and helped people find happiness, contributing to the community's overall well-being. Erin is humbled to lead her team at Willow, finding her career an opportunity to serve people and create a fulfilling workplace for therapists.

Sonia Flunder-McNair

Trailblazer Awardee

An innovator, creator and leader, who has broken new ground as a woman entrepreneur.

Presented by: THE UNIVERSITY OF TOLEDO MEDICAL CENTER

Sonia's journey into entrepreneurship was sparked by a life-altering event-a post-surgery complication that nearly claimed her life. This experience ignited a profound personal transformation, leading her to recognize local food insecurities and the scarcity of naturopathic alternatives. Encouraged by friends who often visited for herbs and foods from her garden, she turned her passion into a career, giving birth to her business.

Establishing her business was a formidable challenge for Sonia, but her resilience shone through. From securing capital to finding a prime location amidst fierce competition, she faced numerous hurdles. However, she tackled these obstacles with a unique approach-integrating urban farming to produce her own raw materials. This not only eliminated intermediaries and enhanced product quality but also provided a local herb supply for her community, setting her business apart from the rest.

Sonia's dedication to naturopathic medicine began in high school when her mother was diagnosed with Lymphoma cancer and given six months to live. Her mother chose holistic treatment, but as her condition worsened, Sonia took over her care, immersing herself in naturopathic medicine at a young age. A local health food store owner mentored her, teaching her to build a wheatgrass farm for medicinal purposes. This knowledge extended her mother's life far beyond the initial prognosis and laid the foundation for her future endeavors.

SONIA Organics has not only made a significant economic impact but also become a source of pride for Toledo. As a 100% black woman-owned business, it is a testament to Sonia's resilience. Despite surviving a complete rebranding and a major website hack during their most profitable season, they emerged stronger. Their transition to SOrganics® under government trademark protection not only safeguards their recipes, products, and logos but also symbolizes their commitment to quality and innovation.

This is a business that the community can truly be proud of. Sonia's entrepreneurial journey has been marked by a commitment to community growth and equitable success. She doesn't just serve the community, she is a part of it. By integrating community support into her business model, she challenges the status quo. Her mission is to teach self-sustaining lifestyles and help others achieve their own success, demonstrating that business growth and community development can flourish hand in hand.

SONIA Organics has been a revenue generator and a source of holistic education and alternative medicine for her community. Establishing Urban Wholistics, a 501(c)(3) organization, addresses the lack of green spaces in historically excluded areas. Urban Wholistics offers youth programs, farming instruction, and free plant and seed events to promote home growing. These initiatives, including health education and beautification efforts, have transformed Tatum Park into a community pride point, attracting visitors from far and wide.

By nurturing community growth and providing valuable resources, Sonia's business has not only thrived but also significantly contributed to the well-being and pride of the local community.

Kelly Savage

Legend Awardee

A woman we celebrate for a lifetime of entrepreneurial achievement, community impact, and support of the success of others.

Presented by: TOLEDO REGIONAL CHAMBER of COMMERCE

Kelly Savage's entrepreneurial journey was profoundly influenced by her father, John F. Savage, who passed away on February 8, 1993. His final words to his nine children, "Keep it going," were decisive for Kelly. Already on the path of entrepreneurship, Kelly was inspired to remain in her community, help others achieve financial independence, and continue her father's legacy. Thirty-one years later, her passion for serving others remains strong, driven by the memory of her father and her commitment to inspiring local female talent.

Kelly faced numerous challenges in her entrepreneurial journey, including doubt, risk, competition, and the uncertainty of market demand. She had to wear multiple hats, juggle various responsibilities, manage time effectively, and maintain a work-life balance. Even with her father's efforts, building brand awareness required continuous innovation and differentiation. Networking and relationship building were crucial for capturing market share and sustaining growth. Additionally, Kelly managed the emotional toll of entrepreneurship, prioritizing mental health and seeking support to prevent burnout.

Kelly's active lifestyle, particularly her passion for basketball, significantly influenced her business success. Playing college basketball at The University of Toledo taught her the importance of hard work, perseverance, and resilience. The competitive nature of the sport paralleled the challenges of financial planning, and the famous quote by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, "You can't win unless you learn how to lose," resonated with her. The lessons learned from basketball and her father's emphasis on physical and mental balance equipped Kelly with a mindset that has served her well in business.

Under Kelly's visionary leadership, Savage has flourished, evolving into one of the top 100 insurance and financial service agencies in the U.S. The firm, with its 70 advisors and 160 employees, manages a staggering $2.7 billion in assets and $3 billion of in-force life insurance. It caters to nearly 2,000 employers across the nation. The establishment of a cutting-edge 30,000-square-foot headquarters in Maumee, Ohio, and additional locations in Bowling Green and Findlay, stand as testament to the company's growth.

However, Kelly's greatest achievement lies in the trust and satisfaction of her clients, a testament to her commitment to serving their financial needs, a value she inherited from her father. Kelly's entrepreneurial journey has challenged the status quo in an industry historically dominated by men. She strives to ensure equal opportunities for everyone, regardless of gender, race, or religion. Her involvement on boards such as the American Cancer Society, Harbor, and The University of Toledo's Athletic Committee exemplifies her dedication to inclusion. Kelly's personal experiences with leukemia and lymphoma in her family fueled her fundraising efforts, earning her the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's (LLS) Woman of the Year award in 2021. She hopes to inspire young women to pursue their entrepreneurial dreams through her philanthropic work.

Savage's community involvement is extensive and impactful. Kelly has led initiatives like the Savage Foundation Golf Classic, raising over $1.6 million for local nonprofits in northwest Ohio and southeast Michigan. Known as one of the most successful single-day charity golf outings, the event donates 100% of its proceeds to various charities annually. Savage also sponsors a 5K race as part of the annual Glass City Marathon, attracting thousands to the area. As a member of Savage's internal donation committee, Kelly supports hundreds of programs and events annually, demonstrating the firm's commitment to making a difference in the community.
